

I believe that it's our right to sign up for a "no call" list that's in our best interest. If the Wisconsin "no call" list has stricter guidelines than the federal list has, that's more in our best interest. I think the federal guidelines should be changed to make it tougher for bothersome telemarketers. Our phones are not intended to be used that way. We pay too much money for the luxury of our phone to have to be answering calls we did not generate.
